Arianna's practice is focused on tort litigation. She has experience handling a multitude of general liability and casualty matters, including having defended cases in the gig economy and insurance industries. Prior to joining Dinsmore, Arianna worked for a large defense firm representing a variety of clients in civil litigation, construction defect litigation, and commercial litigation matters. She earned her Juris Doctor from Florida State University College of Law, with a Certificate in International Law. She also received the Certificate of Achievement for her Distinguished Pro-Bono Service. In practice, Arianna believes strongly in client service and zealously represents her clients in various litigation matters.
